

Aṁśa (III)—the Rākṣasa who resides in the sun's chariot during the month of Mārgaśīrṣa.

Vi. II. 10. 13.

Aṁśu (I)—a playmate of Kṛṣṇa.

Bhā. X. 22. 31.

Aṁśu (II)—the name of the sun in the month of Saha (Mārgaśīrṣa).<sup>1</sup> the Āditya of the month Citra, possessing 7000 rays.<sup>2</sup> An Āditya.<sup>3</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Bhā. XII. 11. 41.   <sup>2</sup> Br. II. 24. 34 and 38.   <sup>3</sup> Br. III. 3. 67; Vi. I. 15. 131.

Aṁśu (III)—one of the ten devas of the Harita gaṇa.

Vā. 100. 89.

Aṁśu (IV)—The son of Purumitra and father of Satvata.

Vi. IV. 12. 43.

Aṁśumat (I)—son of Asamañja(sa)(s), devoted to grandfather Sagara.<sup>1</sup> Went in search of the consecrated horse of Sagara, met Kapila and belauded his greatness.<sup>2</sup> Pleased with him, Kapila sent back the horse, adding that the Sāgaras would obtain release by the waters of the Ganges.<sup>3</sup> Succeeded Sagara as king.<sup>4</sup> Was engaged in penance to get the Gaṅgā for the liberation of his uncles. Before he could achieve this, he died. His son was Dilīpa.<sup>5</sup> Anointing him, Aṁśumat retired to the forest.

<sup>1</sup> Bhā. IX. 8. 15; Br. III. 51. 51; 52. 1; M. 12. 43; Vā. 88. 166; Vi. IV. 4. 7-32.   <sup>2</sup> Bhā. IX. 8. 19. 27; Br. III. 54. 17 and 51.   <sup>3</sup> Bhā. IX. 8. 28-29; Br. III. 56. 29.   <sup>4</sup> Bhā. IX. 8. 28, 31.   <sup>5</sup> Bhā. IX. 9. 1-2; Br. III. 56. 30; 63. 165; Vi. IV. 4. 34.

Aṁśumat (II)—one of the Yādavas deputed to go with Kṛṣṇa's sacrificial horse with a view to its protection.

Bhā. X. 89. 22[3].